

Note that we have a list of concepts related to this story. Concepts are generalized ideas which can be challenged and stretched. We can do this by questioning the assumptions we make and thinking about alternative perspectives in order to further shape and define our ideas. The sample questions we have listed will encourage dialogue about the story, but you can also explore any of the concepts listed using the following question stems.

What is

What do you already know about...

Is it the same as....

What would happen if...

How does... compare to

How did the story change your thinking?

Front cover	Book details	Concepts	Ages	Overview and potential questions
 Amazon link- UK Amazon- US Alt: YouTube	The Conquerors David McKee Andersen Press Ltd	Culture Domination Fascism Imperialism Influence Integration Megalomania Power	8 – 16	There's a very large country that's ruled by a general with a very strong army. They used force to attack other countries until there was only one country left that hadn't been conquered. It was a small country, with no army. The people were very welcoming and soon the soldiers had involved themselves in this new culture. On return home the general found that his own country had changed and had adopted many of the ways of the small country he had 'conquered'. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Can you have power without influence? • Do ignorance and arrogance always come together? • Is every society a multicultural one? • What is the difference between influencing and conquering? • Is friendship a greater force than intimidation? • Does anyone have the right to tell others how to live their lives?